DOMESTIC ECONOMY IN CYPRUS.

It is a common but very erroneous supposition that Cyprus is a happy land where all the ordinary needs of the body are to be had almost without money and without price, and where an ample and comfortable standard of living is compatible with a very low rate of expenditure. Previous to the British Occupation this, no doubt, was true enough, and British officials then residing there, and in receipt of ordinary rates of pay, must have found it possible to live well within their official incomes. Even now the standard of living among the native Cypriots remains very largely what it always was, and, with the exception of some few who have travelled or resided abroad and have acquired Western ideas, the domestic economy of the average native is on a far humbler scale than that of the same class in European countries. The fact that prices of household commodities have risen does not materially affect, therefore, the Cypriot. It should be understood that the bulk of the Cypriots are either agricultural producers or merchants, and even the few professional men are also mostly owners of chiftliks, and therefore all classes of the native community are more or less directly benefited by an increase in the price of locally raised commodities.

This rise in the prices of articles of local production, while directly benefiting the native producer and merchant, is a very serious matter indeed to the unfortunate British official, to whose altruistic labours in the past this improvement in trade, with its accompanying advance in market values, is principally due. Cyprus has come to be regarded by British officials in other colonies as a veritable Paradise towards which they cast longing eyes, and in which they are willing to accept service at half the rate of pay which obtains in other parts of the Empire. It may be a kindness to them to point out that this is entirely a fiction. Those residents with fixed incomes, such as officials dependent on their pay, have a most anxious and difficult task in making both ends meet. There is probably no Crown Colony in which the pay of Government officials is on so low a scale, and yet what are the ruling prices to-day of some of the leading articles of consumption? For the benefit of those unacquainted with the local coinage the English equivalent is given:—(the oke equals 2 1/2 lbs.) Beef 1s. 4d. per oke; mutton 1s. 6 1/2d. per oke; eggs three for 1 1/2d.; wood and fuel, unshopped, 7s. per donkey load, chopping 1s. extra; butter 2s. 3d. to 2s. 8d. per lb.; servants' wages: cooks £2 to £3 per month; houseboys 30s. to 50s. per month, exclusive of food which is always supplied to them. House rent ranges from £25 to £50 per annum; scarcely a house can be found outside the town for less than £30 p.a., and for sanitary reasons most English object to living within the city walls. The above prices may not appear high to those accustomed to European prices, and with incomes commensurate to a higher rate of living, but they are considerably higher than they were at the time the present rate of official salaries was fixed, and not only so but for purposes of comparison the quality of the goods must be taken into account. Good meat is rarely obtainable, and the butchers have no knowledge of their work. Beef is not often to be found at all, and is usually so tough (the carcasses of worn-out draught animals) as to be barely eatable. At this season lamb is sold as mutton, and the joints, which are minute, consist of bone and gristle, all of which is charged for at full rates. The lambs are killed so young that they have no flesh on their bones whatever.

As regards domestic servants, many of the older ones are well acquainted with their work, but the younger servants who have everything to learn are certainly dear at the price, and with increasing values all round the tendency is for their wages to be raised. To put the case moderately it is just possible for an Englishman and his wife to live in reasonable comfort on an income of £225 a year. This presupposes constant care and vigilance on the part of the housewife, and that she is sufficiently acquainted with the language and with the many arts and dodges of the wily native, not to be imposed upon by her servants and tradespeople; a condition of things which is naturally rarely met with. This allows no margin whatever for sickness, or for travelling expenses to and from England on leave of absence, and certainly allows no opportunity of saving, such as every official should be able to do. It may be added that a large number of official posts in Cyprus of good status worth from £500 to £800 a year elsewhere and held by English gentlemen accustomed to the ordinary standard of living which obtains in England, carry salaries ranging only from £150 to £300 per annum. It should be stated that the cost of living is many times greater than it was in the early days of the occupation, after the first rash had subsided, when day labour was obtainable at 2 1/2 pias (3d.) a day, instead of 1s. a day as now, and when meat was at 3 to 5 pias (4d. to 6 1/2d.) an oke. The enhanced prices betoken the development of the trade of the country, but it surely must be time for the salaries of the unfortunate officials to be reconsidered, as has lately been done here in Egypt. From the foregoing it will be seen that while living may still be regarded as cheap in that Island for those whose incomes are from, say, £400 upwards, it is quite the reverse for those who, transplanted from countries where the standard of living which they have been born and bred in is high, now find themselves in positions of trust and responsibility and onerous work and in receipt of salaries inadequate to meet the necessary claims upon them.

BULLETIN DE LA BOURSE

(Aujourd'hui à midi et demie)

La matinée a été consacrée aux Urbaines, Batailles, et Comptoir.

L'Urbaine s'avance à 513/16 pour clôturer à 53/4 acheteurs.

Les Batailles sont fermes à 25/32 et le Comptoir gagne 3/16 à 5/8.

En revanche l'Oasis rétrograde à 11/2, la Warden à 7 1/2 et la Filature à 31/32.

La Land Allotment gagne toujours du terrain, l'action à 1 1/4 et la part de fondateur à 175, en bonne tendance.

En hausse également la Brasserie des Pyramides à 134, la Crown Brewery à 225, les Nungovich à 167/16.

Les grosses valeurs continuent à être délaissées; mais elles ne tarderont pas à reprendre.

La hausse de l'Urbaine serait déterminée par la reprise des pourparlers de fusion entre la Société des Immeubles et cette société. Ces pourparlers auraient des chances d'aboutir.

CAIRO LAW SCHOOL.

AN ULTIMATUM.

THREAT OF ANOTHER STRIKE.

We regret to hear that the pupils of the Khedivial Law School have not profited by their recent experiences. An ultimatum was sent to the Ministry of Public Instruction last week demanding the reinstatement of the four expelled pupils and threatening another strike if the Ministry refused to comply. The demand was refused by the Ministry and the official reply read to the students, who made no demonstration.

It is to be hoped that they will have the sense to see that any further outbreaks must lead to the closing of the Law School and to the permanent injury of their careers. We should like to point out to those of them who are not above taking European advice that their guides have not been genuine educational reformers, but political wire-pullers whom—in a fatal moment for themselves—they allowed to take over the direction of the movement. Is it worth their while to handicap themselves and inflict great inconvenience on their parents to enable Mustapha Pacha Kamel to pose as the leader of the Egyptian youth? But perhaps that energetic patriot has promised them all places as printer's devils and proof-readers in the office of the "Lewa."

THE FRONTIER QUESTION.

We are still in the dark about the frontier. The Turkish troops, despite the assurances of Tabah and the Nekbel-Akaba, the Turkish delegates, Miralim Muzaffer Bey and Bimbashi Fahmi, have departed without a word, and we hear that one of the Egyptian delegates is now mournfully surveying a complete camping outfit which he acquired on learning that he might have to start for the frontier almost immediately. The Diana remains off Akaba, and Mr. Bramley awaits events at Nakhil. Meantime the probability of an increase in the Turkish forces on the frontier grows greater day by day, and with it the necessity of a complete delimitation of the frontier which will prevent the recurrence of similar incidents.

COUNCIL OF MINISTERS.

The following are the decisions of the Council of Ministers which met on Saturday at Abdeen Palace under the presidency of H.H. the Khedive:

1. Appointment of M. Joseph Marins Suzanne, president of the Court of First Instance at Toulon, to be judge of the Alexandria Mixed Tribunal, to replace the late Judge Rubland.

2. Transfer of Mohamed Bey el Nagdari from the Mixed Tribunal of Alexandria to the Cairo Mixed Court, to replace the late Mohamed Bey Khairat.

3. Transfer of Abd-el-Messih Bey Simaika, judge of the Mansourah Mixed Court, to the Alexandria Mixed Court.

4. Appointment of Youssef Bey Suleiman to be judge of the Mansourah Mixed Court.

5. Approval of a law authorising the Ministry of the Interior in cases when the country is threatened with epidemic disease to take the necessary measures with regard to the transport of rags.

6. Appointment of Mr. Rowlett to the Governorship of the National Bank of Egypt and of Mr. Home to the Sub-Governorship.

7. Authorisation of numerous minor public works in the Markazes of Keneh, Mansourah, Minieh, and Tahta, and of the construction of 26 agricultural roads in various parts of Upper Egypt.

8. Authorisation of the expropriation of certain lands situated at Mex to prevent the construction thereon of any buildings that might mask the guide lights indicating the new pass now being dredged into the harbour of Alexandria.

ALEXANDRIA MUNICIPALITY.

The following is the programme of the proceedings at the meeting of the Commission on Wednesday next:

1. Installation des nouveaux membres.
2. Election du Vice-Président.
3. " de 7 membres de la Délégation.
4. " des membres du Comité des Finances.
5. Election des membres du Comité des Travaux Publics.

THE SUCRERIES.

THE APPEAL CASE.

PLEADINGS FOR THE CONCORDAT.

This morning, the appeal of the Société des Sucreries et de la Raffinerie d'Egypte came on for hearing before the First Chamber of the Mixed Appeal Court, under the presidency of Judge de Korizimos. Maître Carton de Wiart opened the case with a masterly review of the whole history of the affair. He began with the efforts of Ismail Pacha to encourage the cultivation of the sugar cane in Egypt and dealt with the history of the rise and development of the Company, the suicide and bankruptcy of M. Cronier, and the subsequent crisis, with the details of which our readers are well acquainted. The eminent counsel went on to show that if the bankruptcy had been declared at the time of the Cronier crash, the Daira Sugar Corporation could have absorbed almost the whole of the Sucreries and the bondholders would have received thirty or forty per cent., while the shareholders would have received nothing. On the 19th September the Cairo Court selected the experts and the report of those gentlemen was undoubtedly considerably influenced by the tendencies of a section of public opinion. The former employees of the company also fomented a fierce agitation against the Sucreries. The result was that the experts were undoubtedly influenced by these tendencies while French experts, on the other hand, were in favour of the reconstitution of the company, and their opinion was maintained by such authorities as Harari Pacha and Boghos Pacha Nubar, who were ready to join the board of a reconstituted company. As to the report of the Cairo experts, it was nothing more nor less than a "requisitoire." They had declared that the company was neither unfortunate nor of good faith. When the counsel for the company wished to reply to the experts, the Court refused to grant him a hearing. Meanwhile at Paris an agreement had been arrived at by all the parties interested to accept a "Concordat préventif." The agreement was that of the total debt, £850,000, no less than £400,000 would be wiped off by accepting the offer of the Egyptian Government to take over the company's line of railway, £400,000 would be covered by the issue of debenture stock, and £400,000 by a further issue which would extinguish the small balance of debt remaining and enable the company to proceed with its business. The attitude of the "Ministère Public" at Cairo was utterly incomprehensible and the point of view of that gentleman was curious in the extreme. Why, when everybody, creditors and shareholders alike, was unanimous in demanding a "concordat," how came it that the Ministère Public sprang upon an astonished world the preposterous demand for bankruptcy? When Maître Padoa Bey, counsel for the creditors, rose to reply, as he had the right to for the promulgation of the Ministère Public was a "demande nouvelle" and also contained some erroneous points, the Court refused him a hearing. As to the finding of the lower Court, Maître Carton not only claimed that the Court of Appeal should quash the judgment but that it should decree the "homologation du concordat." The important point was that the bad faith of the board of directors should be established, if bankruptcy was to be declared. This important point the experts had failed to substantiate satisfactorily.

They had confined themselves to taking the opinions of the petty employees of the company and never once had asked the advice of their chiefs. Moreover, the several reports of these gentlemen were contradictory, and in order that they should present a joint report to the Tribunal they had simply struck a mean between their various points of view. Maître Carton indignantly stigmatised such conduct, especially in such a case, when the honour of the directors, the future of the company, and a most important industry in Egypt were at stake. Leaving out Cronier, de la Beuglies, and Leroux, who alone can be accused of complicity, the others could not be accused of bad faith. The lower Court in its judgment declared that the shareholders had abdicated their rights on the pretext that the company's meetings were specially attended by the shareholders, but this line of argument was illogical, as no less than 300,000 shares of a total of 825,000 were held in France. At many company meetings a quorum is not attained but this is not equivalent to an abrogation of their rights by the shareholders. The two "arrêts" of a Belgian Court, in which the Cairo Tribunal based its judgment, rather supported his own contention, said Maître Carton, than that of the Court. The first of these "arrêts" declared that bankruptcy ought to ensue, but among the "attendants" there was one to the effect that bankruptcy was in the interests of the creditors. Maître Padoa Bey then spoke for the creditors and showed that a concordat should be granted in the interests of the creditors. M. Borchgrevink, Procureur Général, declared that the Board had been guilty of carelessness and grave negligence for years past. He disputed the validity of the "arbitrage" and concluded that inasmuch as the Board and the general meetings are the recognised instruments whereby the company acts, it is logical that the company should be held responsible for the deeds of its Board, and he was consequently in favour of confirming the judgment of the lower Court.

Judgment will be given on the 21st inst.

THE HELOUAN BALL.

PICTURESQUE AND GAY SCENE.

SOME OF THE COSTUMES WORN.

The present season at Helouan has been one of the best on record. On Friday last the Grand Hotel Helouan, which has always taken the leading part in providing amusements for visitors, presented a wonderfully picturesque and gay scene, the special occasion being a fancy-dress ball. To Mr. Petry, the courteous manager, a special feeling of thanks must have been felt by all present for the excellent way in which the preparations had been made. The floor, which is undoubtedly one of the best in Egypt, was in splendid order and the buffet provided was laden with delicacies. The music was supplied by Bracale's Band, who kept excellent time and had to pay penalty by numerous "encores." Many dinner parties had been given. Among those entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Shelmertine, Mrs. Bell White, Capt. and Mrs. Slazenger, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. Warren, Dr. Llewellyn Phillips, Capt. Adams and others. Dr. and Miss Hobson entertained Miss Babington Jones, Mr. Trimen, Mr. Nesbit and Mr. Dickenson at dinner before the dance, and Dr. Bentley came with a large party from the Tewfik Palace Hotel. The visitors from Cairo who were present, through the courtesy of Captain Adams, were able to return to Cairo by special train at 1.30 a.m.

Helouan has often been accused of being full of invalids, and being far too dull for sound and healthy persons. If that is so, such a statement was entirely disproved on Friday night. The opening dance provided an extremely pretty sight, for the costumes, many of which were extremely clever, presented a kaleidoscope of colours and the scene was full of interest by numbers of non-dancing visitors from the different hotels and pensions who had been cordially invited. The following are some of the costumes. Miss Zibokine wore one of the prettiest costumes of the evening, appearing as a pierrette in red and white, and her sister was a baby in a long lace robe, Miss Warren, early Victorian; Miss Jones, Mrs. Warren and Miss Totenham, Gipsies; Miss Pawcett, a dainty Gipsie; Miss Darley and Miss Duncan looked charming, the former as a rose, the latter as Duchess of Devonshire; Miss Babington J. Jones as a lady of the last century and her pretty young sister representing Cherry Rite; Miss Hobson a school-girl of unknown date; Miss Kirkbright was much noticed as Polly; Mrs. Beckett, Pondré; Miss Gladys Phillips, dainty Chinese Lady; Miss Bentley, milkmaid; Miss Philippe, a flower girl. Mr. Mannel and Seligman amused their many friends as Casino girls in somewhat raucy dresses. Mr. Shelmertine, chef. Mr. Firth a donkey boy. Dr. Bremner a tennis player fitted with all requirements. Capt. Oatran, Order of the Bath. Mr. Charlesworth and his brother a masked gentleman and countryman in a blue smock respectively. Dr. Bentley looked very well as a sheikh, Mr. Bentley jockey; Mr. Sawyer, doctor of music; Mr. de Cosson, Sir Walter Raleigh, Dr. Phillips; 18th Century Beau; Mr. Trimen and Mr. Dickenson, Anglo-Américains; Mr. Nesbit's costume was particularly striking as a stately Bedouin. Dr. O. Hobson's costume as Winter was extremely effective. Mr. Warren and many others added to the gay scene. In evening dress we noticed Mrs. and Miss Crofton, Capt. Adams, the Messrs. Bennet, Mr. Loftus, Capt. Gordon Cumming, Mr. and Mrs. Firth. Mr. and Mrs. Straker, who were all indefatigable dancers.

TURKISH GUNBOATS AT SUEZ.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT).

Two Turkish gunboats, Caetani and Yetha, with the supplyship Erdemir, came out of the canal this morning and will sail early to-morrow morning for Hodeidah. The tonnage of the gunboats is 194 tons, their crew 42 all told, and they carry four quick-firing guns.

The British second-class cruiser Hyacinth arrived at Suez this afternoon from the East Indies, where she has been relieved by the Hermes.

All steamers arriving from the South report a very strong northerly gale in the Red Sea, on account of which they are considerably detained. The Japanese mailboat Iye Maru is expected to arrive at Suez this evening from Japan, bound to London. She is the first to renew the service since the war.

ARRIVAL OF AMERICAN WARSHIPS.

The American men-of-war, Brooklyn, Tacoma, and Chattanooga arrived at Alexandria from Beyrouth early this morning and exchanged the usual salutes with Fort Saleh. The squadron is under the command of Admiral Sigbee.

THE KHEDIVE.

H.H. the Khedive will receive the functionaries and notables who received decorations of the higher grades on the last anniversary of his accession at 3 p.m. on Friday next at Abdeen.

STEAMER MOVEMENTS.

The Messageries Maritimes S.S. Senegal, from Marseilles, passed the Straits of Mesina on Saturday and is due here to-morrow.

NEW BRITISH CLUB.

FORMAL OPENING CEREMONY.

CLUB COMMITTEE "AT HOME."

When, a few months since, the idea originated of presenting a British Club to Alexandria, no one dared hope that the scheme would meet with the success it has. Merchants, bankers, shipping companies, and individuals all came to the front with valuable aid, with the result that last Saturday afternoon the committee were enabled to formally open the club.

The committee were "At Home" from 4.30 to 7.30 p.m., during which time many hundreds of persons availed themselves of the opportunity of inspecting the club's beautiful premises, which are very handsomely equipped. The billiard-rooms are second to none, the card-room and lounge are appropriately furnished, and the electric installation is perfect. The floral decorations, which were very tasteful and gave a bright appearance to the club, were very kindly arranged by Mrs. Gould, wife of the Consul-General, and donations of flowers were kindly made by Mr. Percy Carver and Mrs. Crafston. Refreshments were served continuously during the At Home and suitable music was furnished by D'Ambra's orchestra.

Amongst the many present we noticed Sir Massie and Lady Blomfield, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Gould, Mr. Percy Carver, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Carver, Mr. and Mrs. Crafston, Canon and Mrs. Ward, Rev. H. P. and Mrs. Reid and many others, too numerous to mention, all of whom were conducted through the premises by the committee, and the same flattering remarks were heard on all sides, viz., that the club far surpassed all anticipations.

A general meeting of members was held at 9 p.m., Mr. J. Davies Bryan in the chair, when the new rules were passed. Mr. Kerr was elected hon. auditor, and Mr. Francis Leveaux hon. legal adviser to the club.

Mr. P. W. Carver, as hon. treasurer, gave a brief outline of the present finances of the club. There are now 223 members, of whom 205 are ordinary and country members, and 18 have given special annual subscriptions amounting to £1,100. Donations collected are £1,921. The expenditure has been carefully made and a credit balance of about £1,240 exists at the Anglo-Egyptian Bank, besides £200 of Unifid. There is, however, a further outlay in prospect to complete the furnishing, and the second portion of the rent, £1,220, to be met. Enough was shown to satisfy the meeting that the club is on a sound financial basis.

Votes of thanks were accorded to Sir Massie Blomfield, chairman of the original committee, Mr. Percy Carver, the hon. treasurer, Mr. Arthur Purvis, the hon. secretary, Mr. Davies Bryan, chairman of the committee, Mr. Geo. Morris, late chairman of the house committee, and Mr. Walter Sarjeant, present chairman of the house committee.

So ended a very pleasant and memorable occasion. The club, so much needed and now so auspiciously inaugurated, is now at the disposal of those it was intended for. The committee have done their work well; it only now remains for the members to support it.

EGYPTIAN ESTATES.

SALE AT 100 PER CENT. PROFIT.

Last week the above company disposed of 14,000 pic of land on the Mahmoudieh Canal at P.T. 110 per pic, for which they had paid P.T. 54, thus giving the company a profit of 100 per cent. on their transaction.

THE MANŒUVRES.

Brigadier General G. M. Bullock, C.B., Commanding the Force in Egypt, Major A. R. Hoskins, D.S.O., Major General Staff, Lieutenant Colonel R. C. Cox and Captain J. Evans, 2nd Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, left Cairo by the 6 a.m. train to-day for Khatatba, for duty during the manœuvres.

The Machine Gun Detachment, 1st Battalion King's Royal Rifle Corps, consisting of 10 N.C.O.'s and men, also 6 horses and 2 mules, will proceed from Cairo to Khatatba by rail to-day.

PERRIER WATER.

The universal satisfaction that this natural table water appears to be giving not only in Egypt but all over the world is remarkable. It certainly meets the requirements of most, and is especially suitable for the climate and conditions which rule in Egypt.

EGYPT AND THE WHITE STAR LINE.

Readers of this paper will observe in our advertising columns particulars of the sailings of the White Star Line from Alexandria to Naples (reached in four days) and America. This service is undoubtedly one of the best for reaching Europe, and should be well patronised by the many travellers now in Egypt, and who will soon be contemplating their return journey. The immediate sailings are:

SS. Republic (15,400 tons) Feb. 15.
Romania (11,400 tons) " 22.
Canopic (13,000 tons) Mar. 15.
Republic (15,400 tons) " 29.
and the fares from Alexandria to Naples are £10 and upwards. Bookings may be effected at the White Star Agents in Alexandria, Messrs. J. Ross and Co., and at Cook's Tourist Offices in Cairo.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

The Archduke Joseph of Austria and suite made a short stay at the Loxor Hotel on their way up to Assuan last night.

We are glad to announce the birth of a son and heir to Mr. Fred T. R. Watt, Governor of the National Bank of Egypt, which took place at Cairo yesterday. Both mother and child are doing well.

Major F. W. Hardy, R.A.M.C., has been granted leave of absence from the 23rd inst. to July 22, with permission to travel in Italy, Switzerland, France, and England.

The Right Rev. Robert Brindle, D.S.O., Roman Catholic Bishop of Nottingham, who officiated at the conversion of Princess Rosa, had a long career as military chaplain before the Cardinal Vaughan made him an auxiliary bishop in the Archdiocese of Westminster. He was with Lord Kitchener in the final conquest of the Sudan and recited a prayer of his own composition at the memorial service for General Gordon in Khartoum. It so impressed Lord Kitchener that he had a number of copies struck off. Lord Kitchener and previous commanders in the Sudan had a high opinion of Father Brindle's judgment, and often consulted him.

Departures for the South still continue to be numerous. The following passengers left for Upper Egypt by the train de Luxe on Saturday: Mr. Mettke, Dr. Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Weiler, Mr. and Mrs. Mallaban, Comte Ahlefeldt, Mr. and Mrs. Steckney, Miss Stickey, Miss Maxon, Mr. Spencer Brown, Mr. H. B. Con, Mr. Warner, Mr. Davies, Mr. De Kerdal, Dr. A. Tobler, Coles Pacha, Mr. T. Elmer and party of 3, Avocat Colucci, Antoun Bey Sabbag, Mr. Won. Mohamed Bey Daramally, Saeroug Bey, Mr. Tite, Mr. Rose and party of 3.

The following passengers left by the train de Luxe last night: Mr. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Craw, Mr. and Mrs. Tieldlander, Mr. and Mrs. Oxley and maid, Mr. J. Von Elsch, Mr. Roffer, Mr. G. B. Romie and party of 2, Mr. Jackson, Mrs. Ruffer, Mr. Von Benin, Mr. and Mrs. Sgeoberg, Capt. Cox, Sir Richard and Lady Harrington, Mr. Ferrar.

A COLLECTION OF WATER COLOUR SKETCHES.

Mr. A. O. Lamplough, A.M.S.K., has returned from his trip to the Fayoum, and has added various fresh and altogether delightful sketches to those already on view at the National Hotel. Mr. Lamplough has been particularly happy in catching the Egyptian atmosphere, and more especially so in gaining both that translucent colouring and mist effect which make our morning and our evening glory. There are two delightful bits of Fayoum town, which are worth remembering and are very delicately handled, and there is a hot sunny stretch of road with huts at one side and some cool grey palms in the mid-distance which is also very good. The lovely fisher hut on Lake Kurn, where duty is levied on the fish caught therein, is not without its charm, and there are many who would appreciate that lovely stretch of Libyan desert with nothing but its rocks to break its drear monotony.

It is rather late to speak of the collection of pictures which has already been on view now for some weeks, but there is much merit in these water-colours, and they deserve appreciation. The sketches of the river about Luxor, whether in the morning cool, midday sun, or sunset, are full of charm, and there is a wealth of colour in No. 10, where the sun is tingling the low hills with its glow, and the dahabiah is floating down the shallow reaches. The mist effects on the Nile and in the desert are treated with great simplicity and effect, and there are various views of the country in which the Pyramids appear as background. A very careful piece of drawing with masterly treatment of reflected shadows is to be seen in No. 25, "Court of the Nile Temple," at Medinet Haba. A similar picture to this was bought last year by H.R.H. Princess Henry of Battenberg, who has favoured Mr. Lamplough on several occasions. Those who are interested in the country and who have a keen appreciation of its beauties should not miss this opportunity of seeing this charming collection.

A catastrophe has taken place in the mines at Lens (Pas de Calais). Eighteen hundred miners had gone down in the morning. It is feared there are numerous victims. (Havas)

LENS, March 10.
The number of dead known up to the present is 1,219. (Havas)

LILLE, March 11.
The Courrières catastrophe is unparalleled in the whole history of mining. 1,219 persons are known to have been killed. A crowd of 25,000 persons have struggled to the pitheads endeavouring to learn the fate of their bread-winners. It appears that the fire had been smouldering for days in the lower workings. It broke out furiously yesterday morning at 700 feet below the surface, resulting in explosions. The rescue work is most difficult and dangerous, owing to the galleries caving in and being full of poisonous gases. Hundreds of bodies have been recovered. Subscriptions for the sufferers are coming in freely. The Chamber will be asked to vote 500,000 francs. (Reuter)

THE SPANISH MARRIAGE.

PRINCESS ENA'S CONVERSION.

NEW BOOKS.

One of the most useful series of books for English-speaking folk abroad is Hutchinson's Colonial Library. Among the latest publications of this series is "The Gambler" by Katherine Thurston. Messrs. G. G. Zoharia & Co., of "The English Library," Cairo, have a large stock of volumes of this sensational novel as a big rush for this work is expected.

Mrs. Thurston's new novel is as great an achievement as was "John Chilote, M.P." It is striking and original, and the heroine, a beautiful Irish girl, is as fascinating as she is uncommon. The story deals in a dramatic and exciting manner with an impoverished Irish family of the better class. The head of the house is a gambler, and Clodagh, bright, gay, impulsive, but the soul of honour, inherits his passion. The scenes shift from Ireland to the Continent, where Clodagh goes with a husband whom she has married almost without thought on her father's death. The love is awakened in her by another, and intrigue, debts and difficulties beset her, but she is saved when ruin seems coming. Clodagh is so intensely human and lovable in her strength and weakness alike that there is from first to last a compelling interest in the story.

Messrs. Methuen and Co. have just published (2s. 6d.) an excellent primer of religion based on the catechism of the Church of England. The author is the Rev. W. T. Oldfield, Prebendary of Lincoln, who has produced a most serviceable little book, which will form a practical basis for the religious instruction of the young. The style is simple and the method of presentation is unexceptionable. We cordially recommend this handbook to our Anglican readers.

Il est porté à la connaissance du public que le Conseil d'Administration de la Société a décidé de réduire de 22 % le prix de l'eau fournie aux Borne-fontaines publiques.

En conséquence, à partir du 1er Janvier 1906 on pourra obtenir l'eau aux dites fontaines à raison de P.T. 3 (trois piastres tarif) le mètre cube au lieu de P.T. 3,857 payées jusqu'ici.

Cette réduction de prix ayant été décidée par la Société dans le seul but d'en faire profiter les habitants de la Ville, le public est prié de veiller à ce que la dite réduction lui soit faite par les saks qui lui fournissent l'eau, afin de ne pas laisser ces derniers profiter du rabais qui n'a été consenti qu'en faveur du public.

La vente d'eau au détail aux Borne-fontaines, s'établit comme suit:
Le tonneau de 660 kilos de jauge 20 millièmes La gabelle de 66 " " 2 " 3/4 " L'estagion de 22 " " 2 " 3/4 " et pour toute quantité dépassant la jauge ci-dessus, chaque 4 kilos seront comptés à 1/8 de millièmes.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL ON EGYPTIAN AFFAIRS.

The recently published biography of Lord Randolph Churchill contains many passages referring to Egypt, some of which are well worth reproducing. As the author remarks in his preface, "no great legislation stands in his name on the statute book. No tangible or enduring records—unless it be the Burmah province—exist of his labours..." and it is as the brilliant rhetorician rather than the constructive statesman that he will go down to posterity. Few who can recall his hard hitting when, as the foremost spokesman of the "Fourth Party," he enlivened the debates of the House of Commons by his incisive wit and vigorous home thrusts, will fail to recognise in his remarks on British policy in Egypt the same acute perception as that which characterised most of his political utterances.

Writing of Egyptian affairs in 1883 the author says:—

"The gradual withdrawal of European Powers and final retreat of France left Great Britain alone to confront the growing anarchy in Egypt. A medley of conflicting impulses and incidents—moral obligations, material interests, the Suez Canal, the coupons of the Egyptian debt, Arabi's national movement and the massacre of June 11, 1882, in the bombardment of Alexandria on July 11, 1882, by the British fleet. Mr. Bright resigned from the Cabinet; but the House of Commons broke into general cheering at the news and only eight Radicals testified to their principles by their votes. Large military operations followed. Twenty-five thousand British soldiers descended upon Egypt. Arabi and his national movement were stamped out under the heavy heel of the British Grenadier and England became responsible for the fortunes of the Nile Valley.

"Their intervention was to carry the Government further than they expected. The misrule which had produced in Egypt the national movement of Arabi had created the rebellion of the Mahdi in the Sudan. The inhabitants of vast regions were aflame with military fury and religious fervour. Youssef Pasha had been overwhelmed. The army of General Hicks was being collected for its fatal effort. The Khedivial garrisons were everywhere cut off and besieged. Khartoum almost alone was accessible from the north, inch by inch and hour by hour the Liberal Government was dragged deeper and deeper into the horrible perplexities of the Egyptian riddle and the Sudan tragedy. At each detested step they resolved to go no further. Every act of interference was to be their last. Every day they looked forward to an early evacuation. To get out of the country in the shortest possible time and upon any conceivable justification was their constant and controlling desire; and after every struggle to escape they found themselves more hopelessly and inextricably involved.

"To Lord Randolph Churchill the whole policy of intervention seemed a flagrant political blunder and a crowning violation of Liberal principles. He had sympathised from the beginning with the revolt of Arabi Pasha. He subscribed fifty pounds to the expenses of his defence before the Egyptian Court Martial. He believed that the popular soldier and Minister had been the head of a real national movement directed against one of the vilest and most worthless Governments in the world. That England should use her power to stamp out that movement, to crush the army which sustained it, to banish the leader on whom all depended and to hand back the wretched Egyptians to the incapacity of Tewfik and the exactions of his creditors, was to him an odious crime. The war was—in his eyes—a wicked war, an unjust war, a bondholders' war," and as he felt, so he spoke. While the fighting was actually in progress criticism was necessarily ineffective; but at the beginning of 1883 the excitement of Tel-el-Kebir and Kassasin had begun to subside and Egyptian affairs became a leading subject of Parliamentary debate.

Lord Randolph had persuaded himself, upon a mass of evidence collected for him by Mr. Wilfrid Blunt and others in Egypt, that the Khedive Tewfik was indirectly responsible for the massacre of June 11, 1882, which he believed had been instigated from the palace in order to compass the ruin of Arabi and the national movement, and provoke decisively the intervention of the European Powers. Having adopted this opinion, he held tenaciously to it, and thrust it upon Parliament with earnestness and even with passion. Although in the first instance he had supported the pension to Lord Alcester for his services in bombarding Alexandria, on the ground that it was a reward to the naval profession as a whole, he revised himself of the passage of the necessary Bill (June 8) to bring forward his charges against the Khedive. The House was astonished at his vehemence. The Prime Minister's reply was, however, cautiously guarded. He did not absolutely deny the charge.

All he said was that the information in the possession of the Government afforded not the least confirmation of it. It was a "tremendous charge," and the Government would be glad to examine the evidence on which it was based. Indeed it was Sir Stafford Northcote who used the hardest language. While admitting that he considered the warlike intervention in Egypt wrong and unjustifiable, he expressed "extreme regret" at Lord Randolph's attempt to raise such an issue on the note for a naval reward to a distinguished officer. "I decline," he said, "to be led by the noble Lord, and I trust the House will decline to be induced by the noble Lord to accept a position which I consider would be degrading to its honour." This, as Mr. Gort said later in the debate, was a statement which would have been better made by the Prime Minister than by the leader of the Opposition, who, however he might view the opinions of Lord Randolph Churchill, should leave it to opponents to attack him.

The affair proceeded further. One of Arabi's officers, Suleiman Sami, was brought before a court martial on the charge of burning Alexandria. The witnesses demanded by the defence were not allowed to appear. The trial was unexpectedly curtailed; and the prisoner was sentenced to death. Lord Randolph exerted himself to procure at least delay before the sentence was executed, in order that the irregularities at the trial might be exposed. He declared that Suleiman Sami was himself a witness whose death would be "a God-send to the Egyptian Government." Plied with questions and appeals, the Government undertook to make enquiries, but before any satisfactory information was obtained and while the House was still under the impression that the matter was in suspense, Suleiman Sami was hanged. On this being known the feeling in the Conservative party was so strong that Sir Stafford himself moved the adjournment of the House to discuss the conduct of Ministers in regard to the execution, which Lord Randolph furiously described as "the grossest and vilest judicial murder that ever stained the annals of Oriental justice." In this attack the fourth party were supported by the great mass of Conservative members.

At Mr. Gladstone's invitation, Lord Randolph laid before him a quantity of evidence which he had obtained in support of his assertions. This evidence was examined by Ministers and officially rejected; but it is remarkable that the Government took no steps, by rebutting it in detail, to discredit their pertinacious assailant. They could not tell how far a fearless and impartial inquiry into the labyrinth of sanguinary intrigue which had overmastered the field of Egyptian politics before the British intervention might carry them. They wrapped themselves in a silence of prudence or disdain, and Lord Randolph continued to repeat his statements with undiminished assurance. He forwarded formally to Sir Stafford Northcote, among others, a copy of the evidence he had sent to the Prime Minister. The style and superscription of the acknowledging letter afford a key to their relations at this period:—

20, St. James' Palace, July 1, 1883.
Dear Lord R. Churchill,—I am much obliged to you for sending me a copy of the papers you have submitted to Mr. Gladstone.—I remain faithfully yours,

STAFFORD H. NORTHCOTE.

WHEN TO BEGIN DRINKING.

Some rather hypothetical figures have lately been given to the world by Dr. Charles Dana on the age limit of inebriety. Inebriety, he tells us, usually sets in before the age of twenty, and few people ever begin to drink to excess after arriving at the age of thirty if they have been temperate before that age. No cases arise after forty years of age; and though there is a popular idea that numerous people do begin to drink heavily after forty, it is generally found that investigations of their life histories will disclose periods at any rate of intemperance in their earlier years. If, therefore, men can be kept abstinent till they are twenty-five a life of sobriety is generally assured to them. Such is the hypothesis; but on the whole it appears less valid than the alternative one that it is the creature of habit who becomes a habitual drunkard; and that in this sense people of "irregular habits" run a smaller risk than those whose habits are regular. There used to be, in days when sobriety and temperance were less the rule, very few men who could say that they had never had a period, brief though it might have been, when they took more alcohol than was good for them.

MALTA FEVER.

COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

The Royal Society has just issued a further report of the commission appointed by the Admiralty, the War Office, and the Civil Government of Malta, for the investigation of Mediterranean or Malta fever. In a previous report it was shown that goats in Malta are susceptible to the fever, this being demonstrated by the presence in their milk of the particular microbe identified with the disease, Micrococcus melitensis. The discovery warranted the inference that the Maltese goats might be responsible in the main for the transmission of the infection to the human subject, the principal milk supply of the island being derived from the numerous herds maintained there. It has also been determined that certain species of mosquitoes in Malta act as carriers of the microbe, while there is a strong probability that it is transferred by the insect from man himself. It appears to be definitely established that Malta fever can be acquired by the absorption of infected goats' milk from the alimentary canal, and that this mode of infection is largely responsible for the occurrence of the disease among the Maltese, who drink raw milk drawn at the doors of their houses. Drastic preventive measures are recommended. The oiling of all stagnant water, with a view to the destruction of the larvæ of mosquitoes, is considered to be a prime duty on the part of the sanitary authority.

SPORT AND PLAY.

CAIRO POLO TOURNAMENT.

Only one game was left to play last week between the 60th Rifles and the Freebooters. It was a disappointing game as, though the Freebooters only won by a goal, they had very much the better of the game. The ground, which has become a good bit worn, was bumping considerably and consequently there was a lot of missing.

Freebooters. 60th Rifles.
1. Capt. Kennedy. 1. Mr. Pardee.
2. Capt. Protheroe-Smith. 2. Major Bustace.
3. Mr. Dunbar. 3. Mr. Seymour.
4. Mr. Rumbold. 4. Mr. Dalby.
Umpire: Capt. Bartlett.

1ST CHUKKER.

From the throw-in the 60th ran the ball down and hit behind. The ball was taken to midfield from the hit-out, when Dalby got on and taking the ball down hit a very good goal. From the throw-in several exchanges took place till the 60th passed and hit behind. From the hit-out Rumbold made a good run, Seymour fouling. From the penalty Rumbold hit a good goal. On play being resumed Seymour, with a fine long shot, nearly scored, Rumbold saving well on the goal line. The Freebooters now attacked, backing each other up well, and Dunbar had a shot at goal, but hit wide. Immediately afterwards Dunbar had another easy shot but missed, the ball going behind. Freebooters, 1 goal; 60th, 1 goal.

2ND CHUKKER.

From the hit-out the 60th brought the ball down but Kennedy getting hold brought the ball back, hitting behind. Pardee got clean away from the hit-out but, missing, a good chance was thrown away. Up-and-down play followed, Kennedy, with a good run, took the ball right up the ground and very nearly scored. The 60th now attacked and Seymour with a fine long shot just missed the goal, getting a subsidiary. From the hit-out Dunbar hit well up, but Bustace getting on slipped the field and with a good run finished up with a goal. Scrambling play followed from which Dalby hit a subsidiary. Bad hitting out nearly lost the Freebooters a goal. P. J. M. Dunbar centred well to Kennedy, who nearly scored, Freebooters, 1 goal; 60th, 2 goals 3 sub.

3RD CHUKKER.

Up till now the 60th had had the best of it, but a change now came over the game and for the remainder of the match the 60th were on the defensive the whole time, and it was only the indifferent shooting of the Freebooters that stopped a big score being hit up against them. Time after time, Dunbar, who was allowed to gallop loose, got through and had a shot at goal. Freebooters, 1 goal; 60th, 2 goals 2 sub.

4TH CHUKKER.

The 60th were still leading when the last chukker began. From the hit-out the Freebooters ran the ball down and Dunbar nearly scored from a difficult angle. Dunbar again got on at midfield and made a good run down the boards, and centring well followed up and very nearly scored, the 60th hitting behind. From the penalty Dunbar got a goal with a good near-side shot. From the throw-in Kennedy got away and made a very good run, just missing the goal, but Dunbar following up, put the ball through.

Result: Freebooters, 3 goals; 60th, 2 goals 2 sub.

This was rather a disappointing game, the 60th for some reason going to pieces at half-time. All the winners played well, especially Dunbar and Kennedy, the latter making several very good runs. For the losers, Dalby and Pardee were the best, but the former was not quite so brilliant as in previous games.

NOTES ET CRITIQUES

Le Caire, 10 mars.

A Londres, le Consolidé anglais a haussé hier de 1/8 à 90 7/8 et l'Unité de 1/4 à 105 1/2. La National Bank et l'Agricole sont restées invariées à 27 5/8 et 10 1/8. La Daira Sanieh a baissé de 1/8 à 17 3/4.

A Paris, l'action Crédit Foncier Egyptien est renseignée en reprise de 2 francs à 794 et la Banque d'Athènes de 1 franc à 145.

Notre marché des valeurs a été, ce matin encore, très actif et très ferme sur plusieurs valeurs.

La National Bank, toujours inerte, est restée à ses prix d'hier. Plus animée, l'Agricole s'est inscrite à 10 1/16 l'action ancienne, et 95/8 la nouvelle. La Cassa di Sonto a haussé de 210 à 216. L'action Crédit Foncier a progressé à 794 et l'obligation à lots 1886 à 342.

L'action Immobilière a avancé à 392; la part de fondateur à 550. La part de fondateur Agricole du Nil est montée à 7 1/2. La part de fondateur Enterprise and Development est revenue à 17 1/2. La part de fondateur Land Allotment a atteint 177 pour clore à 168.

L'action Société d'Entreprises Immobilières et Travaux s'est maintenue à 4 1/2; on ne tardera pas certainement à voir des cours plus élevés. La part de fondateur a atteint jusqu'à L. E. 19 1/2 pour clore à 18. On sait qu'il avait été décidé, dès la constitution de la Société, de subdiviser chaque part de fondateur en 25 coupures. Les nouveaux titres seront mis en circulation dans deux mois.

L'action Brasserie des Pyramides est montée à 133; la part de dividende à 79. Un mouvement de hausse sérieux semble se dessiner sur ce titre; on affirme que la Société est en train de conclure la vente de ses terrains à des prix extrêmement avantageux.

Les Omnibus du Caire sont à 27 acheteurs. Dans le groupe des Hôtels, il y a eu des transactions très importantes sur les National, qui ont atteint 4 5/8. Le public commence à s'intéresser à ce titre, dont la hausse paraît devoir s'accroître rapidement. Les acheteurs sont sérieux.

Parmi les petites valeurs, fort mouvement de hausse—que nous avons prévu depuis longtemps—sur les Cotton Mills; on a clôturé à 8 sh. 6. Les Oasies ont également avancé à 1 5/8. Les Salt and Soda restent à 24 sh. 6. Les Estates ont fait 2 3/16; la part de fondateur a encore gagné £ 1 1/2 à 12 5/8. Les Egyptian Constructions sont revenues à 1 11/16.

Il y a lieu de s'attendre sur les Agricoles du Nil à un mouvement de hausse, qui serait d'ailleurs justifié par les brillantes opérations faites par la Société. Une seule d'entre elles a, paraît-il, donné un bénéfice de 11,000 livres.

Il ne faut pas, d'autre part, perdre de vue le revenu rapporté par le beau domaine acquis l'an passé. Bien que consigné au milieu de l'année, l'exploitation agricole de ces terrains donne déjà un profit "net" de 4 à 5 pour cent.

On assure que l'émission publique de la Cairo Heliopolis Metropolitan Electric Railway Co. (Oasis du désert de l'Abassieh), aurait lieu dans le courant du mois prochain.

La capital social, s'élevant à 15,000,000 de francs, est représenté par 60,000 actions de 250 francs chacune, entièrement souscrites par les fondateurs.

La proportion qui serait offerte au public serait de 20 %, soit 12,000 actions. La souscription serait ouverte simultanément au Caire, à Bruxelles et à Paris.

Diverses rumeurs sont en circulation au sujet de la hausse qui vient de se produire sur les actions de la Western Egypt Corporation (Oasis). Le bruit a couru hier en Bourse, au Caire et à Alexandrie, qu'une mine de houille avait été découverte sur les lieux.

Ce qui est certain, c'est que la Société a organisé une expédition chargée d'explorer l'oasis Maluk, qui passe pour être très intéressante au point de vue minéralogique. Cette expédition se mettra en route dans un délai de jours.

Depot de Marque de Fabrique

La Société Anonyme Egyptienne dénommée "Tabacs et Cigarettes Matossian," a déposé aux Greffes Commerciaux des Tribunaux Mixtes du Caire et d'Alexandrie, sous les dates respectives des 4 et 20 Janvier 1906, une série d'étiquettes nouvelles, destinées à être apposées sur ses paquets de tabacs.

Les procès-verbaux de ces dépôts ont été publiés in extenso dans le Journal Officiel (Numéros du 20 Janvier et du 10 Février 1906).

Les dits dépôts, ainsi que la présente publication, ont pour objet d'assurer à la Société Anonyme soussignée la propriété exclusive et absolue des dites marques de fabrique, et de prévenir toute contrefaçon.

Ils n'entraînent aucune renonciation, de la part de la Société, aux dépôts antérieurement effectués par elle aux mêmes Greffes. Tabacs et Cigarettes Matossian Société Anonyme.

Remarques
(De midi à 1h. p.m.)
Coton.—La faiblesse s'est accentuée d'une façon marquée et sans les gros achats de quelques négociants, qui ont trouvé leur convenance à couvrir certaines positions à la baisse, il y aurait eu presque panique. La tendance n'est guère encourageante pour le moment.
La nouvelle récolte a suivi le mouvement et la perte de la matinée pour le novembre s'est élevée à 5/16 de talari.
Graines de coton.—Elle a subi l'influence de l'état général du marché et a fini en baisse.

DR. LE CLERC'S PILLS

 are an unfailing and reliable remedy for diseases of these important organs, gout, rheumatism, gravel, pains in the back and kindred ailments (acquired or constitutional). Sold by principal Chemists, not in loose quantities, but only in boxes, price 2s. 2d. bearing the British Government Stamp with the words Eugene Le Clerc, impressed thereon to protect the public from fraud.

DR. LE CLERO'S SOAP.
 Medical, antiseptic, used and recommended by eminent dermatologists in the treatment of eczema, lepra, psoriasis, ulcers, skin eruptions, itching and irritating skin humours, baby rashes, etc., also a prophylactic against the risk of contracting disease and infectious disorders generally. Its healing properties greatly minimise the inconveniences of shaving in cases of pimples, spots, teacane. In Tablets, price 1s. sold by Max Fischer, Cairo and Alexandria.

Les personnes qui connaissent les PILULES DEHAUT DE PARIS

Il n'hésitent pas à se purger, quand elles en ont besoin. Elles ne craignent ni le dégoût ni la fatigue, parce que, à l'opposé des autres purgatifs, celui-ci n'opère bien que lorsqu'il est pris avec de bons aliments et des boissons fortifiantes, telles que vin, café, thé. Chacun choisit, pour se purger, l'heure et le repas qui lui conviennent le mieux, selon ses occupations. La fatigue de la purgation étant annulée par l'effet de la bonne alimentation, on se décide aisément à recommencer autant de fois que cela est nécessaire.

52, rue de la Harpe, PARIS.
